(Columbus) – The 2022 Columbus Weddings Show, presented by Worthington Jewelers, returns to the Ohio Expo Center, 717 E. 17th Ave., in Kasich Hall on Saturday, Jan. 15, and Sunday, Jan. 16, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Through a VIP experience, guests can meet celebrity wedding planner, author and TV host David Tutera. Tutera will also make a daily appearance between two Runway Shows, which will be overseen by Columbus Fashion Council founder Thomas McClure.

The event that Central Ohio engaged couples look forward to every year has returned and includes everything to-be-weds can imagine to map out their perfect day: more than 125 wedding companies and experts offering guidance and products from the ring to the honeymoon and everything in between. Couples will be inspired, generate new ideas, meet with vendors and designers face-to-face and get their toughest questions answered—all under one roof. Attendees can taste samples from 20+ chefs and bakers including cakes, sweets, caterers' special creations and hors d'oeuvres. They also have the opportunity to see the most wedding gowns in one place, inspect invitation designs, compare photographers' work and consult with other wedding professionals. Many vendors will offer special discounts only to show attendees.

“We are tremendously excited to be back after a pandemic-forced pause, and to have the opportunity to present one of the best wedding shows in years,” said Emma Frankart Henterly, editor of Columbus Weddings magazine and Columbus Weddings Show spokesperson. “We are fortunate to be able to book David Tutera – our audience loves him because he is highly entertaining, has a vast knowledge of the mechanics of putting together a successful and memorable wedding event and has seen it all!”
